

HOW TO AVOID HVAC EMERGENCIES THIS SUMMER

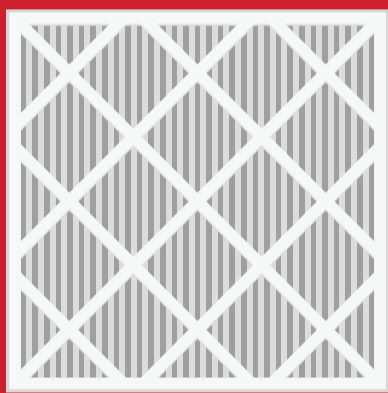

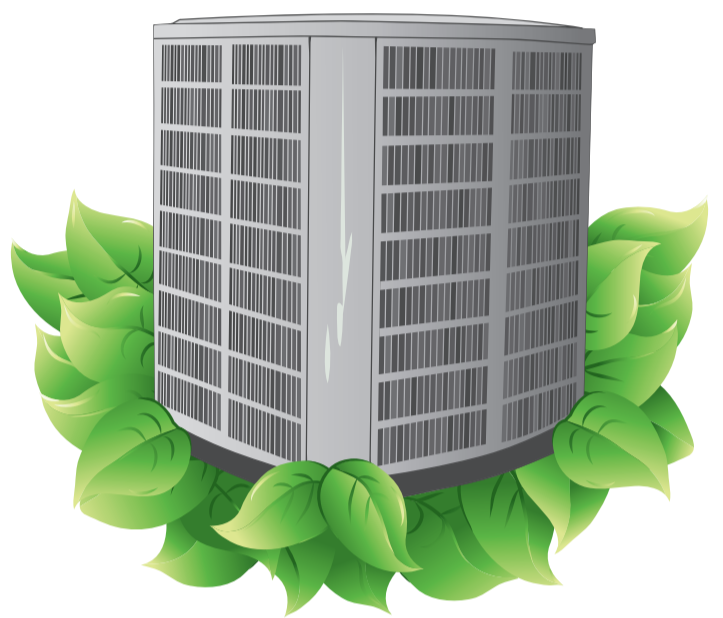

There's no worse feeling than the stress of a system breakdown, especially when it's your air conditioning in the peak of summer. But when does AC need maintenance, and is the investment of HVAC maintenance worth it?

You can avoid the hassle and expense of an emergency breakdown by taking a few preventative steps with Anchor Heating & Air!

INSPECT YOUR COOLING SYSTEM

A quick visual inspection can tell you a lot about how prepared your system is for summer! Be sure to clear away any debris like leaves, sticks, or dry grass that might have accumulated over the winter.

Feel like your system components should be checked before starting it for the season? Anchor's here to help!

CHECK YOUR AIR FILTERS

Did you know that air filters should be replaced every 30-90 days? This range is dependent on your system manufacturer, your allergies, whether you have pets, and more.

Breathe easy from the moment your cooling system starts up! Start the cooling season right with clean new filters.

SCHEDULE AC MAINTENANCE BEFORE THE SUMMER RUSH

Anchor recommends annual maintenance for all home heating and cooling systems. This is especially important if your AC system is older, or if you have a specific concern.

By calling to schedule your HVAC maintenance in Atlanta today, you can get your system running smoothly before our schedule fills up.
